

Further loosening of media ownership regulations will only serve to further restrict the diversity of voices being heard, will further benefit the upper strata of society and business, while effectively harming the people whose voices ought most to be heard. If anything the FCC need to revert back to it's initial mission of protecting the PUBLIC interest, NOT the corporate interests of the United States.